LEOPOLD AND LOEB ESCAPE NOOSE; GIVEN LIFE TERMS

Trial Of 'Experimental Slayers' Ends

THREATEN JUDGE

Heavy Police Guard Stationed In Court Room

(Reuter's American Service)

Chicago, Sept. 10.—The sensational trial concluded here today in which Richard Loeb and Nathan Leopold, 19-year old students of the Chicago University and sons of two Chicago millionaires, were accused of kidnapping and murdering the 14-year old schoolboy, Robert Franks, son of a well-known Chicago business man, from whom the accused were alleged to have demanded $10,000 ransom.

Loeb and Leopold confessed to the crime. Each alleged that the other had struck the blow which killed Franks. The crime had apparently been carefully planned.

The defence pleaded for imprisonment rather than death on the ground that the accused were suffering from "mental sickness."

The case aroused the greatest excitement. The Chicago police had taken extraordinary measures to prevent a demonstration when the sentence was pronounced today. Threats to lynch the accused had been freely made, and many persons connected with the case had received anonymous letters from the Ku Klux Klan and other secret societies.

Later.—Richard Loeb and Nathan Leopold have been sentenced to imprisonment for life.

Unparalleled precautions were taken to ensure the safety of Judge Caverly. Extra guards occupied the Court room throughout the night. The force inside and outside was increased to 500 men at dawn.

The proceedings lasted 10 minutes. The Judge pointed out that no minor had ever been sentenced to death in Illinois on a plea of guilty. While finding no mitigation in the crime itself, in the personality of the defendants or in that of their antecedents, he accepted full responsibility in declining to impose a death penalty on minors.

In order to comply with technicalities there were separate sentences: Life imprisonment for murder and 99 years for kidnapping.

The sentence of ninety-nine years on the kidnapping charge means that the prisoners cannot be released on parole for 37 years whereas the life term alone would permit of release after about 20 years. The Court urged the Department of Public Welfare never to admit the prisoners to parole.

CHEKIANG ADVANCING IN WESTERN THEATER OF WAR; NO CHANGE IN LIUHO

Minor Skirmishes In Liuho Sector Took Place Yesterday; Three Battalions Of Kiangsu Troops Reported To Have Deserted Following Chekiang Successes On Taiho Lake

Reports of further success on the Western theater of war were received at the Lunghua headquarters yesterday. Following the capture of Lanshantsu on the 9th, heavy bombardment was directed against Sushan Village. The central column occupied Huhutseng yesterday. The success was due to the fact that three battalions under the command of Yang Chung-pu of the Kiangsu army deserted their cause in the course of the operation, the report said.

Liuho was quiet yesterday. It was believed that General Chi Hsieh-yuan was changing his tactics, following the demand of the diplomatic authorities to declare Shanghai and Woosung neutral. Only minor skirmishes were staged in the outskirts of the town with little change on the war front. The declaration by the diplomatic body in Peking would make Kiangsu lose its objective and Liuho would be useless even captured.

Here foreign observers also report that there was little firing through the night and no troop movements. Supplies of ammunition were sent up by motor truck through the day in preparation for heavy fighting which Chekiang soldiers said they expected to precipitate. Customs boats are moving away from Liuho and nearby villages in expectation of a widespread engagement.

What may become a decided factor in the military situation is the rapid deterioration of the Luho road. If it gets much worse, it will become impassible for rapid movements of troops by motor car. The civil authorities are not attempting to repair it because they believe coolies put on the work would be impressed, while the military are said to need all the coolies they have for work right with the armies, for ammunition transport, etc.

The greatest handicap to the Chekiang leaders in their war plans and tactics is acknowledged by them to be a shortage of men. Not only are they outnumbered on the fighting line, but the active enemy have large forces of reserves.

A further threat lies in the mobilisation of troops in Anhui, Kiangsi and Fukien provinces in the direction of the Chekiang border. The troops of the first-named province will constitute a decided threat to the line of communications of the Chekiang left flank west of Lake Taihu in case they are successful in taking Ishing and advancing further north.

It is the hope and belief of the Chekiang generals that the troops of the three provinces named will not move unless the Kiangsu forces gain a decided advantage in the struggle. As a counterbalance they point to the armies of General Chang Tso-lin now "mobilised for an advance." They believe Wu Pei-fu will not send any of his own men or any good allied troops to help the tuchun of Nanking so long as this menace exists to the north of him.

Only 38 wounded soldiers were brought back from the front yesterday, practically all were from the Huangtu sector. Ten of these were seriously wounded and were operated upon by the staff of St. Luke's Hospital. The others were distributed among the other six Red Cross Hospitals.

CENSORS HOLD UP 3 CHINESE PAPERS

Censors at the post offices held up bundles of three of the Chinese local newspapers yesterday because they considered that the articles appearing in these were detrimental to the interest of Chekiang and Shanghai. The papers were the Sin Wan Pao, the Shun Pao and the China Times.

Following explanations made representatives of the Sin Wen Pao and Shun Pao, the Lunghua Yamen ordered the release of the two papers, which will circulate as usual today throughout the country.

The circulation of the China Times, however, is still prohibited. A representative is calling on General Wang Ching-chen, Chief of Staff of General Ho, today to offer explanations.

It is understood that the cause of the step taken by the censors against the China Times is the publication of a report that two Chekiang divisions have declared independence under the Civil Governor of Chekiang, General Chang Tsai-yang, which report was denied by Judge T. S. K. Loh of the Lunghua authorities.

The circulation of the China Times has also been prohibited by the Kiangsu authorities previously for being pro-Chekiang.

ARMED ROBBERS ARE WOUNDED IN THRILLING CHASE

Three Shot By Detective In Battle Following Raid On Silversmith

Three armed robbers were wounded and a fourth arrested as a result of a thrilling chase and pistol battle following a raid on a silversmiths' shop in the Yangtszepoo district Tuesday night.

The shop is located at 2629-30 Yangtszepoo Road. At 8 o'clock seven men, four of whom were armed with pistols, approached the place. Five of the men entered, and the other two remained on guard outside.

Two of those who had entered the shop, asked the assistants to show them a silver chain. While the assistants were opening the showcases, all five men jumped the counter, produced their revolvers, and, with commands not to interfere or raise and alarm, quickly ransacked the drawers and showcases and scooped up a considerable quantity of silverware and $4.80 in currency. Just before leaving, one of the men snatched a gold ring from the finger of a woman in the shop. Then all ran out, escaping into the country districts from Sungping Road.

HEAD OFF GANG

Yangtszepoo police station was notified within five minutes after the holdup took place, and Inspector Johnston and Detective Sergeant Grubb went to the scene. Learning that the robbers had escaped into the country, the police officers turned their motor car swiftly down Linching Road with the object of heading off the band.

As the motor car approached Pingling Road, four men who had been standing at the corner, leaped into a field and started to run. The police officers jumped from their car and called upon the men two halt. In reply, one of the men turned and fired two shots at Detective Sergeant Grubb, neither of which took effect. The Detective drew his pistol and fired, felling his assailant. Then he and Inspector Johnston took up the pursuit of the other three men. Detective Sergeant Grubb fired again and wounded another of the bandits. At the conclusion of the chase, all four were in custody, two of them seriously wounded and the other slightly wounded.

The pistol used by the man who fired at Detective Sergeant Grubb was found in the field where he had dropped it, and another man was found to be in possession of a magazine with eight rounds of ammunition.

The four men have been charged with armed robbery, and the man who fired at the detective with attempted murder also.

In another armed robbery in the Hongkew district, four men, one of whom was armed with a pistol, escaped with $630 after holding up an exchange shop at 3109 Haining Road. The four men entered the shop while three accomplices remained on guard outside. After taking the money, the leader of the band fired one shot into the air to intimidate the shop assistants. Then all turned and ran down Haining Road and escaped.

RUSS PROTEST FRENCH SALE OF WRANGEL'S SHIPS

Strong Note Sent To Herriot By Soviet Legation In London

(Reuter's Service)

London, Sept. 10.—The Soviet Delegation in London today sent M. Herriot a note strongly protesting against the proposal to auction at Marseilles two icebreakers and other vessels of General Wrangel's fleet.

The note claims that the vessels are the property of the Soviet Union and says that the Soviet Government have often declared that they would not recognise the legality of such transactions.

In conclusion the note expresses the firm conviction that measures will consequently be taken to preserve the vessels intact until they are handed over to the legal proprietors, the Soviet State.

Huangtu Quiet After Seesaw Battle Over Night; Shot Smashes Wall Of Station

BY TALBOT PATRICK

Hungtu, Sept. 11.—A battle from early dusk until dawn, a struggle in the darkness which swayed back and forth between the defense lines of two creeks between Huangtu and Anting, ten hours of heavy fighting throgh muddy cotton field and rice paddies deep in rain water—I could almost wish that some of the humorous minded foreigners who talk of "you chase me and then fan yourself" Chinese armies had been in the middle of it.

The result of that night-long struggle was the driving back of the Chekiang troops by the northern soldiers until the southerners once again took up their strong position along the banks of a creek less than a mile west of Huangtu, the line they have held most of the time since fighting began more than a week ago.

A similar creek a short distance east of Anting station had offered the Kiangsu soldiers a similar strong line of defense, where they had first stopped the attempts of the Chekiang men to seize Anting and then gathered their strength for a return push which sent the southerners back to the line near the railway they held day before yesterday. Part of the southerners' gains of yesterday still remained with them however, in that the former Kiangsu salients to the north and south of Huangtu had been punched in and the line straightened out to some extent.

After that night of fighting, both armies acted comatose all day, so far as firing was concerned. Rain during much of the day was another strong argument for quiet.

One notable event of last night's fighting should be recorded in view of Kiangsu reports to the correspondent of another paper that Huangtu station was a mass of ruins from shell fire. Last night the station, which has been well peppered in the past by rifle bullets but never struck by anything larger in spite of a member of hits close by, was finally bumped. A shapnel casing smashed through the north wall, dented the corner of a doorway and fell harmlessly on the platform in front of the station. Casualties were one stationmaster slightly wounded by glass shattered from a window in the north wall.

Despite the shell and shrapnel fire which has gone on intermittently for days, none of the troops at the station except the artillery have attempted to erect any cover beside that provided by the station, the railway embankment and the line of cars before the station used as ammunition and supply depot and living quarters. The artillerymen are steadily digging themselves in and since my last visit have added extra covered pits for the gun crews to shelter themselves and ammunition in.

Today a quantity of fresh food supplies came up to replace bread and some rice spoiled in the heavy rains yesterday. There was wild scramble when the rain came to get supplies under shelter and I saw spoilable supplies getting wet in some places while boxes of canned meat piled next to them were being hurried under cover. Hitherto all the tinned meat I have seen has been Chinese, but today a large consignment of

RESERVE POLICE TURNED OUT FOR LOAFER ROUNDUP

Disturbing Elements To Be Turned Over To Chapei Authorities

Shanghai Municipal Police Reserves were called out last night and from 9:15 to 11 o'clock conducted a general search of lodging houses in the Settlement for the purpose of rounding up loafers who are believed to have flocked into the Settlement by the hundreds within the past few days as a result of the conscription of laborers and loafers in Chapei and other adjacent Chinese territory.

The loafers bear a peculiar tattoo mark on their arms, supposed to inspire terror in more peaceable Chinese, and it is by this that they are recognised.

It was proposed that those rounded up last night be deported and turned over to the Chinese authorities in Chapei, by whom they will probably be conscripted for labor at the front.

A similar roundup was conducted by the French police as few days ago, as a result of which approximately 300 men were said to have been turned over to the yamen at Lunghwa.

DIPLOMATS WILL TURN LEGATION OVER TO SOVIET

M. Karakhan Is Notified Of Agreement To Transfer

(BY UNITED PRESS)

Peking, September 10.—The Soviet embassy here has been notified that the Diplomatic Corps will surrender the keys to the former Charist legation tomorrow, thus ending the long-standing dispute over the return of the Russian legation. Details as to how the settlement was arrived at have not been announced as yet.

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Peking, Sept. 10.—The question of M. Karakhan, the Soviet Envoy, taking over the Russian Legation has now been settled in a satisfactory manner.

Unconditional Surrender Demand Of Nanking Now; Nothing Less To Satisfy

Definite Elimination Of Lu Yung-hsiang Is Purpose Of Strife, Kiangsu Chief Of Staff Tells Correspondent For The China Press

BY LANSING HOYT

Special Correspondent of the China Press With he Kiangsu Forces

Nanking, Sept. 10.—Through the courtesy of Mr. Y. F. Liu I enjoyed this morning a two hour interview with General Lieu Yu-ko Chief of Staff of the Kiangsu forces who is now at the Nanking General Headquarters. Marshal Chi is at the front.

General Lieu is a man of energy and strong personality, who at 46 looks 35, and has very decided views on the present campaign. The total absence of reserve in discussing military matters which he exhibited was very gratifying. He stated that he did not wish to conceal anything, that he wanted foreigners and especially the Americans to realize that the program of the Kiangsu army was nothing short of the elimination of Marshal Lu as a disturbing factor in the reunification of China.

In the accomplishment of this object now that the war was on, nothing short of unconditional surrender and a disbandment of Chekiang troops would satisfy the Northern side. As regards the question of who fired the first shot this was a small matter because, prior to the inception of hostilities, Hangchow had deliberately broken faith when it repudiated the peace-pact by taking into their provincial army Fukien soldiers who should have been disbanded forthwith.

Instead of disarming these "semi-brigands," declared General Lieu, Marshal Lu incorporated them into his own army thereby attempting to strengthen a "rebel" government that has never shown in the least degree a disposition to

WAR PICTURES

We have obtained a large number of exclusive war pictures showing interesting phases of the present struggle between Chekiang and Kiangsu. These pictures have been obtained by our photographers at considerable personal risk to themselves, as they almost dived into the very heart of the fighting. The coming issue of THE CHINA PRESS Sunday Pictorial will be exclusively devoted to the reproduction of these pictures. Those who are not regular subscribers are advised to send in orders for copies in advance, addressed to the Circulation Department of THE CHINA PRESS. They are well worth sending home.

GEN. HO ORDERS SPY SEARCH ON RIVER VESSELS

Detectives Report Kiangsu Plans To Send Troops In Plain Clothes

Strict precautionary measures are being taken by the Woosung and Shanghai Constabulary and the French Police following receipt of reports that Kiangsu is planning at attempt to send a considerable force of soldiers in plain clothes into Shanghai from Hankow as passengers on river boats, according to the Chinese press.

The information is said to have been garnered by detectives sent out by General Ho Feng-lin, who, it is said, has given instructions to Col. Lu Yung-chien, chief of the Woosung and Shanghai Constabulary, to have every river ship searched for suspicious characters. It is also declared that General Ho has obtained the cooperation of the French police in watching river boats which dock along the French Bund.

NO CAUSE NOW FOR ALARM HERE ASSERTS COUNCIL

Adequate Defense Measures Taken, Municipal Body Points Out

No cause for alarm regarding safety of lives or property in the Foreign Settlements exists now, the Shanghai Municipal Council points out in a communique issued yesterday to offset various alarmist rumors which have been spread through the Settlement. The communique follows:

"Contrary to various alarmist rumors, there is nothing in the existing situation to give cause for apprehension or alarm so far as the Foreign Settlement is concerned.

"At the same time measures have been taken to place the Foreign Settlement in an adequate state of defence and to safeguard the lives and property of its residents, and numerous warships of the various Foreign Powers are assembled in the harbor for further protection should the necessity arise."

Grand Ballet By Elena Pavlova At Olympic Theater

Elena Pavlova, the gifted ballet artist who recently arrived in Shanghai from Japan, is giving a grand Oriental ballet, "Aziade," at the Olympic Theater here on September 29 and 30, Monday and Tuesday respectively. Mlle. Pavlova is assisted by Mr. Krupin, also artist of distinction, her sister Nadezhda Pavlova, and other ballet artists numbering over a score. In addition to the main number, "Aziade," there will be a classical ballet, which is said to be second only to the other in grace and beauty.

"Aziade" is one of Mlle. Pavlova's most successful productions. She is said to have won her high reputation as a terpichorean artist at Harbin, Japan, and elsewhere particularly through this ballet, and it now gives her an opportunity to display in Shanghai, in a fitting ensemble, the full charm and grace of her art.

Mlle. Nadezhda Pavlova, the star's sister and also a dancer of ability, is said to have sustained an injury to her leg during the earthquake in Japan which incapacitated her from dancing for a long time. She has now quite recovered, however, and will participate in the big "Aziade" ballet.

"Aziade" is said to be one of the most promising numbers on the program for the beginning of the music and theater season here. Booking starts at Moutrie's today.

Denunciation Of Tsao Kun Issued By Street Unions

A circular telegram denouncing President Tsao Kun in scathing language, has been dispatched by the Canton Road, Taining Road, Shantung Road, Honan Road and ten other streets unions, according to the Chinese press.

The telegram asserts that Tsao Kun achieved his election by bribery, that he has failed to avert the war between Chekiang and Kiangsu, and that he has, in fact, incited the strife by giving help to Tuchun of Kiangsu.

"He deserves worse than beheading," the message says.

Recruiting Officer Is Ordered Arrested

Reports appearing in the Chinese press state that General Ho Hsiang-ling, Defense Commissioner for Shanghai and Sungkiang and Chekiang leader, has ordered the arrest of a man known as Mei, a former commander of the Chekiang Salt Smuggling Prevention Force.

According to the Chinese reports, Mei has been recruiting a force of soldiers in the Shanghai district within recent days. He was ordered to stop recruiting by General Ho, but refused, and Col. Lu Yung-chien, chief of Woosung and Shanghai and Woosung Constabulary, has therefore been ordered to arrest him and bring him to the Lunghwa yamen for trial.

Lansing Hoyt Depicts Scenes On Kiangsu Sid

Former U. S. Trade Commissioner Here With Nanking Troops As China Press Correspondent

Mr. Lansing Hoyt, former United States Trade Commissioner stationed in Shanghai, but now in business in this city, has gone to the "front" on the Kiangsu side of the present war as the Special Correspondent for The China Press. Armed with special credentials as a war correspondent issued from the Yamen of General Chi Hsieh-yuan at Nanking Mr. Hoyt is now somewhere with the Kiangsu forces in the neighborhood of Huangtu. Mr. Hoyt's first dispatch from Chinkiang, giving the first authentic information of the convoying of Kiangsu troops down the Yangtsze to reinforce the Northern forces at Liuho and of the location of the Nanking Navy appeared in the China Press yesterday and today we are printing another dispatch from Nanking giving the first interview to be published here with General Lieu Yu-ko, Chief-of-Staff of the Kiangsu armies giving the northern side of the story.

In another and later dispatch from Soochow, dated Wednesday, September 10 Mr. Hoyt told of his five hour trip down from Nanking to Soochow on a train crowded with troops bound for the front.

SHIVER IN RAIN

"The rain was slashing down when we were dumped out of the troop train at Soochow. Kiangsu soldiers stood shivering in the rain against gray walls of nearby buildings looking more like drowned rats than veterans of the redoubtable Northern army. Everything was gray and wet from the clouds overhead to the puttees covering unshapely legs. These men were of all ages and had just returned from the front for a rest. Wet mud was plastered all over them but even through it one could see faces unshaven doubtless for weeks.

"Despite the bedraggled appearance these men were smiling. They had had a taste of battle and were now going out for a while, so why shouldn't they smile? In fact their mirth was now principally directed against the dry shod newcomers with whom I had just had the pleasure of traveling.

"Five hours in a troop train with [illegible] was an experience I shall long remember. Of course it was raining outside so even my boy-interpreter sided with the defenders of Chinese unity and thought it more better to close the windows. I stood this gas attack as far as Chinkiang but there I made a desperate effort to gain the door. At first I could make no headway towards the platform as the aisles were packed. I would lose face if I fainted so far from the front and yet that was just what I was going to do if I didn't get a refreshing draught of ozone. Suddenly in the emergency I remembered my military pass which the Nanking G. H. Q. had given me. Holding this piece of yellow parchment where all near me could see it I indicated my desire to reach the door.

CREDENTIALS WIN

"Instantly along the car aisle sweating humanity in uniform began to melt. The sight of this yellow talisman was enough. From then on I was of more importance than a trade commissioner at a commercial banquet. If the G. H. Q. pass had been made of litmus paper it would have changed color in much the same way it was doing. After a few breaths of fresh air had restored my powers to normalcy, I was again the unruffled war correspondent and the China Press. When these [illegible] Kiangsu doughboys, however, were dumped out into the rain at Soochow, I could not help laughing. With windows to the right of them and windows to the left of them during the trip they had back Father Plavius most nobly, but at the jolt[illegible] and literally jumped into his arms with a vengeance.

"We are now nearing the actual war and while my perspective is steadily being reduced, a few days at the front may afford me an opportunity to give China Press readers a look at one or two "peep shows" that be a cross-section at least of the line and a portrayal that will doubtless typify the life in other sectors as well.

"After official calls on several generals here and after obtaining certain divisional visas, I shall proceed to Quinsan where I hope to hoof it to Huangtu. Big developments may be expected in this sector according to General Lieu Yu-ko, Chief-of-Staff of the Northern armies. Soochow Creek Valley will doubtless be the Somme of this war."

In another dispatch from Nanking, Mr. Hoyt gives a description of the Kiangsu troops in that city waiting to be sent to the front and says they are all well uniformed to the nth degree and present a good appearance. Their spirits seem to be good and they feel confident of victory over Chekiang.

BUSINESS IS NOMAL

Business conditions in Nanking are quite normal, said Mr. Hoyt, the only difference from normal times being that Chinese merchants are showing a preference for foreign ships in the transport of cargoes up and down river. All trains between Nanking and Soochow are running on peace time schedule. There is very little disturbance in traffic and usually four carriages are at the disposal of ordinary passengers. The big military move was accomplished weeks ago, so that now commercial travelers and war correspondents have a chance, said Mr. Hoyt.

Prices for general commodities are normal in Nanking and no particular anxiety on the part of the people in Nanking is noticeable. Many of the troops stationed in Nanking are veterans of the Szechuen campaign while other supporting troops are constantly arriving from Honan. Most of the soldiers with whom Mr. Hoyt talked were from the farms of Honan and appeared to be above the general intelligence of Chinese soldiers usually seen in the fighting lines in China.

Kiangsu Official Communique

The following Kiangsu Official communique issued by the Intelligence Committee for September 8 and 9 has been received by The China Press:

September 8. Our centre has made several small attacks and has captured 4 machine guns and 100 rifles. Our left wing has advanced slightly. Our right wing is on the offensive. On the I-shing front, enemy troops have been seen at Shiang-shan (on the Kiangsu-Chekiang border). They were driven back somewhat by our fire.

Sept. 9. The Liuho, Chiating, Hwangtu front is unchanged. South of Ishing we hold the important passes in the mountains. Several boats which attempted to land troops from the Taihu at Wushi were sunk by our fire. The Tupan of Fukien has sent troops against Lu and at the Hsien-shia Pass has driven back some Chekiang troops.

The Yamen does not admit the recapture of Liuho reported in Shanghai papers of the 6th. More wounded were brought to Nanking yesterday. At the yamen it is said the killed and wounded to date are only between one and two hundred. No severe fighting has yet been reported; both sides are waiting for a good opening. A hot battle will certainly occur if Kiangsu tries a flank movement as is now expected, via I-hsing, Huchow and Kashing.

The present line runs from Liuho, west of Chiating and Huangtu, north of Wukiang, across Taihu to the Chekiang-Kiangsu border. From here to Kwangtehchow the border is mountainous; below I-hsing and near Kwangtehchow are important passes.

The rumor that the Shanghai-Hangchow Railway was broken yesterday is not verified.

A letter today from Hanchow states that the city is quiet, the stores open and no special anxiety felt unless the line to Shanghai is broken. Railroad officials, the letter stated, will keep this open as long as possible.

Mr. Phil Gillett has returned from the front at Quinsan. He reports "real" fighting though localised. We are trying to persuade him to write more fully of his experiences for tomorrow bulletins.

Yesterday the China Merchants s.s. Kiangshun was commandered at Nanking to transport troops down river. A large company of soldiers were seen in Hsiakwan this A. M. awaiting transportation.

Mr. Wei Pei-shan returned yesterday from Shanghai.

SOVIET TREATY IS BRANDED FAKE BY LLOYD GEORGE

Former Premier Makes Bitter Attack On Pact Drawn By MacDonald

(Reuter's Service)

London, Sept. 10.—In a speech today at Penmaenmawr, Mr. Lloyd George denounced the Russian Treaty as fake and folly. The Prime Minister had been held up by Socialist gunmen. It was an act of criminal recklessness to guarantee huge sums to be spent by organisers of anarchy. The Liberal Party, declared the ex-Premier, would forfeit the respect of the nation if it shirked the challenge. The Government would suffer unparalleled defeat if it appealed to the country on the Treaty.

Mr. Lloyd George supported the Government's Irish policy and approved the letter from Lord Birkenhead to the Earl of Balfour, in which the former, who was one of the negotiators of the Anglo-Irish Treaty, contended strongly that the boundary clause meant that the Boundary Commission was intended to make only minor adjustments.

Disposal Of Dead Is Serious Problem; Help Is Requested

That the matter of disposing of the dead from the Kiangsu and Chekiang battlefields has become a serious problem is shown in an appeal made yesterday by the Liengyih Benevolent Association of Shanghai for coffins, nails and lime for use in burrying those who have been killed in battle. The appeal follows:

The Liengyih Benevolent Association of Shanghai is in need of coffins, nails and lime for use the burial of wounded soldiers from the Huangtu and nearby fronts who die in the various hospitals of the Red Cross Society of China. Those who desire to contribute coffins, nails and lime to the cause may send same to the headquarters of the Liengyih Benevolent Association of Shanghai located at No. Y436 Lloyd Road."

Our Advertising

May be copied, our methods imitated, but O.I.C. Service can never be equalled in the fitting of Comfortable-Becoming Glasses at Reasonable Prices.

Established two decades by one of the first foreign opticians in Shanghai, we are the first extensive and Largest Optical Advertisers in the Orient.

We were first to incorporate the Service of Oculist—Optometrist—Optician together with our own completely equipped manufacturing laboratory on the premises.

The O.I.C. has grown faster than any other local optician.

We were first to formulate and publish a Standard Guarantee of both our Examination and Glasses.

We were first to inaugurate a standard "one price" system on all frames—with prices marked in plain figures.

We were first to offer Genuine Sir Wm. Crookes' Toric Lenses ground to ny prescription for $5.00 per pair, when others charge from $15 to $25.00.

We were first to institut a repair Service whereby we duplicate and replace any broken lense for $1.00—regardless of the prescription in genuine Toric, Flat, White or Crookes Glass.

We were first to inaugurate "No charge for Small Repairs"—"Lense Duplicated while you wait"—"Cases and Antiseptic Cleaners Free"—"No charge for adjustments—Springs or Screws."

Proof That O.I.C. is appreciated is in the fact that the leading business and professional men in China, including our Municipal Councillors are sponsors of O.I.C. Service and wearers of O.I.C. Glasses.

There is one place where Nanking is beating Shanghai and that is in the matter of communiques. Some of the members of the faculty of Nanking University are doing the work and every day a mimeographed circular is issued giving the latest news of the fight as gleaned from the Yamen of Marshal Chi and at other places in the city. The first copy to be received in Shanghai appears in this issue of THE CHINA PRESS and is dated at Nanking, September 9. Another copy for the same day tells of the continuous passing through the city of Honan troops and of the arrival in Nanking of a special squad of police from Tientsin which will be used in the policing of the Kiangsu capital. Many of the wounded on the Nanking side are now being taken to Nanking and are being placed in the military hospital at Si Liu Hsinang. This apparently indicates that the hospital facilities at Soochow and nearer the fighting zone are filled. The report also states that persons are not permitted on the streets after nine o'clock unless they have a special pass issued by the military.

Rufe Canion Trims De Dios At Carlton; Forral Draws In Good Bout With Keenan

At the Carlton last night Rufe Canion added another victory to his string when he trimmed Faustino De Dios through twelve rounds of a fast fight in which the latter boy showed all that was in him,—which was considerably less than the contents of the aforesaid Rufe Canion. In the semi-final bout Benny Forral went eight rounds to a well-earned draw with Syd Keenan. Fighting Fernan got a little-deserved decision over Frisco Peralto in the second event, and Ah Jong won from Young Charlie on points in the curtain raiser.

The main event was Rufe Canion all through. De Dios pretended himself, and his speed and shiftiness sometimes enabled him to keep even for a round or so, but Rufe outfought and outboxed him, and after the first few rounds it was clear that the fight was Canion's. The two weighed in with Canion 124½ to De Dios' 124, and started off by some sparring which made the first round or two look like the start of a hula-hula endurance test, but Rufe soon settled down to work, Faustino came back pretty well, and by the third there was some good mixing, Canion having the best of it.

By the fourth Rufe was chasing Faustino around the ring, the latter stopping and countering at times, but then dancing away again. Rufe landed a few times, but De Dios' quickness kept him from any serious damage. In the fifth there was some good mixing, and in the infighting Rufe landed some stiff punches which jarred the other boy considerably. In the sixth however, Faustino rallied a couple of times, and it was a pretty even fight for a little while.

From this time on, however, it was all Canion, though it was by no means easy for him. De Dios was slower after his spurt in the sixth, and Rufe landed a few good punches in the seventh, and in the eighth was chasing the other boy around the ring again. They mixed a couple of times, and Rufe cut loose a few swings that were apparently intended as sleep producers, but a kayo failed to materialise. In the ninth Rufe landed a couple of straight lefts to the face, and continued the pursuit of the fleet-footed Faustino, who stopped and responded a couple of times but got the worst of it. Towards the end of the round it looked as if a kayo was coming, with Rufe landing a few stiff blows in succession but the bell stopped it.

In the tenth Rufe continued to maul the other boy. Faustino held on a lot, but Canion kept at it, though he seemed to lack the steam for a kayo now. In the eleventh De Dios came back a little stronger, and this and the twelfth round were interesting bouts, with a bit of real milling. The fight was already Canion's, however, and the awarding of the victory to him was done without hesitation.

KEENAN AND FORRAL DRAW

In the semi-final Benny Forral and Syd Keenan went eight rounds of splendid fighting to a well-adjudged draw. The boys weighed in exactly even, at 119 pounds, and after a few moments' sparring went to it. Benny was not slow at leading, but wasted most of his punches on Syd's elbows and gloves, while in the infighting Syd landed some stiff body punches which made Benny take notice.

Forral landed oftener, however, and really had the best of the first two or three rounds, but in the fourth Syd started in with some stiff punches which rather jarred the other boy. Benny countered a couple of times, and one job started the claret going from Syd's nose, but the fighting belonged to Keenan in general both in the fourth round and in the two following chapters, he landing vicious body blows again and again, and occasionally a stiff jab to the face. A couple of times the crowd got going in expectation of a knockout, but Syd failed to put it over.

In the seventh the boys jumped at each other as if they had decided to make a Kilkenny finish of it, and went into business with what looked like homicidal intent.

Both landed hard, and Forral showed that the previous unfavorable rounds had not taken much out of him. There was some stiff grilling, and sometimes one boy or the other looked a bit groggy, though they woke up again and came back for a hard and gruelling finish. Messrs. Himrod and Smith, judges, decided the bout to be a draw, a decision concurred in by the crowd.

Mr. McCoy refereed both of the big bouts.

THE PRELIMINARIES

In the second prelim Fighting Fernan and Frisco Peralto went six good rounds to a decision for Fernan which did not seem to have been well earned. Fernan was aggressive all through, but Peralto landed a number of excellent jabs, especially while the Fighter was drawing back his right for a kayo that he never delivered. Peralto repeated this stunt again and again. Fernan's right would be drawn back, waiting for an opening, and Frisco would jab him in the mush and move away.

A draw seemed to be the proper decision, but Referee Hertzberg gave the fight to Fernan without much hesitation, a decision which aroused quite a roar from the crowd, the general feeling being that a draw decision was the fairest thing.

In the curtain-raiser Mah Jong best Young Charlie in four rounds in which these youngsters did their best. Both boys were pretty good, and gave an interesting exhibition.

SALMON TROUT RUNS FIRST IN ST. LEGER RACE

Santor Second; Polyphontes, Favorite In Betting, Runs Third

(Reuter's Service)

London, September 10.—The following is the result of the St. Leger:

Salmon Trout 1
Santorb 2
Polyphontes 3

Won by two lengths; half a length separating second and third. Seventeen ran.

Betting: 6 to 1 Salmon Trout 40 to 1 Santorb, 100 to 30 Polyphontes.

A good start was made. Arcade quickly gave way to Hurrybelle, the pair being followed by Eaglestone, Santorb, Watford, Irismond, Polyphontes and Zodiac, with Salmon Trout last, just behind Sansovino. Thus they raced for a half-mile, when Eaglestone forced the pace clear of Hurrybelle, Arcade, Polyphontes and Santorb, the whipper-in still being Salmon Trout. Half way, Polyphontes went up to third place. There was no further change until entering the straight, when Polyphontes shot to the front, pursued by Santorb, Watford, Transvaal II, Irismond, Cape Horn and Salmon Trout. A quarter of a mile from home, Santorb closed with Polyphontes and took command at a distance but was promptly challenged by Salmon Trout, who came on with a "wet sail" and won comfortably. Obliterate was fourth, Sansovino eighth and Spalpeen last. The time was 3 min. 13 1-5 sec.

It was only known that Santorb was running late this morning.

The starters were: Arcade (Childs), Bucks Yeoman (Beary), Cape Horn (Victor Smyth), Eaglestone (J. Leach), Great Barrier (Elliott), Hurrybelle (Winter), Irismond (Donoghue), Obliterate (Burns), Polyphontes (McLachlan), Salmon Trout (Carslake), Sansovino (Weston), Santorb (Hulme), Spalpeen (O'Neill), Transvaal (Ferre), Watford (A. Smyth), Winalot (Jellis), Zodiac (Archibald).

POOTUNG SAFETY IS ASSURED BY ADML. ANDERSON

Steps Are Taken For Removal Of Dynamite Dump Across River

(Reuter's Service)

Shanghai, Sept. 11.—Reuter understands that the most satisfactory assurances have been given by Admiral Anderson regarding the protection of Pootung. Several warcraft are now anchored close in on the Pootung side, and at a moment's notice men could be landed for the defence of the place—if that ever should become necessary.

The authorities have also made arrangements whereby the dynamite dump will be removed, or all but removed, tomorrow. The dump consists of fifty tons of dynamite, over forty-five tons of which are the property of the Kailan Mining Administration. These forty-five tons are being removed to the Kailan mines tomorrow.

The foregoing measures, it is felt, should finally calm all fears regarding Pootung. It is hoped that they will remove any justification that seemed to exist for an abnormally high war risk for Pootung.

help in the reunification of China.

CHEERING BUT UNTRUE

General Lieu was called to the telephone while being interviewed and remained there some time. Upon his return his usually cheerful countenance beamed still more when he announced that he had just received a dispatch from the front that both Huangtu and Liuho were taken and that his forces were consolidating their new positions, in preparation for a renewed offensive against the Chekiang line. Casualties had not been as he had expected, but on the contrary steady pressure against the enemy lines had resulted in satisfactory gains without the necessity of resort to defensive tactics in any part of the lines.

The Chief of Staff feels confident that Marshal Chi's forces will continue their present offensive until the Northern line swings south to Hangchow Bay.

da-breyte dorohmi roh rohm shro

Asked regarding the effect this offensive will have on Shanghai General Lieu promptly affirmed that the only possible danger to the peace of Shanghai was the thrusting back of defeated Chekiang troops on the environs of the city. He did not anticipate that these stragglers would be a real menace in the eyes of foreigners because he had it on good authority that defence measures taken by foreigners at Shanghai were ample to handle any situation that might arise. As far as the possibility of the foreign community suffering at the hands of his armies this was unthinkable. Discipline was remarkable among his men and there is the friendliest feeling towards foreigners anyway, because his troops belived that the Americans and the British wanted Kiangsu to triumph in order to bring a quick and lasting peace to China.

A THREE LEGGED STOOL

General Lieu smiled knowingly when he likened the opposition in China to a three-legged stool. "If you knock off one leg, the whole stool falls," he remarked. While not saying so, it was evident that Dr. Sun Yat-sen and General Chang Tso-lin were the remaining legs.

In General Liu's opinion the present campaign will be decisive within the next few weeks. He did not understand his foes, but having command of the river and the sea as well as the air, Marshal Chi had an overpowering advantage. Besides this, Chekiang was gradully being surrounded on all ideas, due to the loyalty of Anhwei divisions to the Kiangsu cause. In addition to this Hupeh divisions were now in Nanking and two brigades of General Feng's (the Christian General) troops were expected by tomorrow. The Christian General's brigades were at war strength of 6,000 men each.

I asked General Lieu what he judged to be the strength of the opposing forces. To my surprise he frankly stated that Chekiang had about 30,000 well equipped men, that Marshal Chi had at present along the front about 48,000, but that 30,000 Northern were being held in reserve or were very gradually being pushed forward into strategic places in the line.

It would not surprise him, General Lieu declared, if the present successes continued, to see a complete withdrawal of Chekiang troops from Woosung and the Arsenal in such a way as to relieve Shanghai of any danger whatsoever. In fact he believes that Chekiang realises the futility of pouring more men into the line east of the Huangtu-Liuho sector. Any forces there now are "up a blind alley" and run the risk of capture by continued pressure of Kiangsu troops further south.

CRUSHING FORCE

General Lieu in closing the interview said that everything would be done to expedite my trip to the front lines tomorrow, because he was particularly anxious that the war aims of Kiangsu and the offensive of the North should be reported frankly. His Commander-in-Chief, Marshal Chi had nothing to conceal and they were not claiming victories against great odds. In fact the preponderance of military weight was with them and they were merely determined to use it in crushing a rebel as speedily and with as little national disturbance as possible.

He did not believe that Fengtien would precipitately enter the war. The conservative party at Mukden was against it and if the peace were not broken by General Chang Tso-lin, General Wu Pei-fu would not take the offensive. There was no reason in his opinion why Peking and Mukden should not come to agreement peaceably on a basis of mutual understanding.

An official report at the Yamen confirmed a dispatch dated September 9 stating that Chekiang forces with artillery attempting to cross Lake Taihu had been repulsed. All heavy guns were lost in the lake and some of the enemy fell into the hands of the Kiangsu outposts.

WILSON LAUDED BY CHINESE IN LEAGUE DEBATE

Tang Tsai-fou Pays Tribute To America And Founder Of League

(Reuter's Service)

Geneva, Sept. 10.—In the course of the debate today on the work of the Council of the League last year, Mr. Tang Tsai-fou declared that there was no real peace unless it was based on principles of justice. He paid a tribute to the great American Statesman and to President Wilson, the founder of the League, and said that there was no real disarmament unless it was preceded by a moral disarmament.

Huangtu Quiet After Battle Over Night

My photography attempts of the last few days resulted in a jam today, soldiers crowding about me on my arrival here and demanding to see the prints which have not yet come up. Most groups are willing to be snapped, but the extent to which one can't be sure, was shown at two adjacent batteries of mountain guns. At one I could take anything and anybody, at the other one man allowed me to "shoot" him after he had pointed the weapon at me and pressed the trigger with no visible effect.

One of my photo subjects presented me with a Kiangsu shrapnel case and head which his companions declared of French make. I accepted them as mementos for the head of the office in Shanghai, since I still have a chance of collecting some trifle in my own person.

The morale of the Chekiang troops continues excellent. The greatest factor in this, I believe is the feeling of the fugitive troops from Fukien which I have heard voiced again and again much as follows:

"If we are beaten here, there is no place we can go. Better to die fighting than to retreat and give up."

The idea seems to be contagious and to have spread to those troops in the area not of the forces which were driven out of Fukien, then from Kiangsi and which finally found refuge in Chekiang. I believe that this spirit has had fully as much effect as superior training and longer fighting experience in enabling the southerners to keep at bay a far larger force of the enemy.

"Eat Less Meat"!

"EAT LESS MEAT"

Preserve Your Health and Annoy the Profiteer: Butchers Pushing up Prices

War's extremity is the butcher's opportunity. Such seems the view of Shanghai meat dealers, for they have seized their chance to boost their prices 40 percent., as announced elsewhere. That this is a matter of profit-making is shown by a study of the market price list showing the rates prevailing in the Hongkew Market. Form this illuminating document giving the difference in prices of September 2 and 9 we deduce that the ultimate consumer is likely to be squeezed again. The greatest advance in price there noted is in beef, an advance of 25 per cent. in the less expensive cuts, while the best cuts have advanced only 13 percent. That is, beef quoted on September 2 at from 16 to 30 cents a pound has advanced to 20 and 35.

Mutton, which was only 18 to 30 is now 25-35 while pork has not advanced at all and veal but slightly. No justification is shown for the advance of 40 per cent. advertised. Fish has not advanced in any instance and indeed cod is cheaper than before. Ducks, fowls, geese, pigeons, quail, snipe and turkey are just the same price, while eggs have risen 25 per cent. for "just eggs" and 18 per cent. for the number one quality. With regard to vegetables and fruit the price is only slightly higher though the price of potatoes has risen from $2.00-2.20 to $2.20-$2.40. A detailed list follows:—

Butcher's Meat		Usual Price	War Price
Beef	per lb.	0.16—0.30	0.20—0.35
Mutton	„	0.18—0.30	0.20—0.35
Pork	„	0.30—0.40
Veal	„	0.24—0.36	0.30—0.40
GAME, POULTRY AND EGGS.
Ducks	each	0.70—1.00
Eggs	per doz.	0.20—0.25	0.25—0.30
Fowls	per. lb.	0.25—0.30
Geese	each	1.00—1.20
Pigeons	„	0.20—0.25
Quail	„	0.30—0.35
Snipe	„	0.16—0.18
Turkey	per lb.	0.50—0.55

The moral which these statistics point is that preached by all the hoardings during the War: "Eat Less Meat." It is admitted that we all eat too much meat for our health. What better time than the present to cut down the meat ration and reprove the profiteer at the same time? The housewives of Shanghai have it in their power to stop this hold-up at once and benefit their families by doing so.

Old China hands will remember previous occasions when floods and famine have been made scapegoats for patent squeeze, inasmuch as the articles sold at advanced prices did not come from districts affected in any respect. War will doubtless bring inconveniences even to the protected foreign community, but it need not be an excuse for profiteering.

Peking, September 9.—According a telegram from Marshal Wu i-fu, General Chin Yung-au in mmand of one of his brigades, t Loyang for Nanking today to er his assistance to Chi Hsieh-an. Marshal Wu yesterday tele-aphed also to Tuchun Hsiao Yao-n of Hupeh to send another igade to Kiangsu besides send-g General Wang Ju-cheng. The an of Wu is to assume a defen-ve position in the Northeast and ncentrate his strength for the rent to crush the Southeast. The rces of Wang Ju-cheng and Chin ng-au are already on their way Kiangsu.—Eastern Times.

Peking, September 9.—Today ao Kun received a telegram from ui Tsai Cheng-hsun of Kiangsi to y that General Sun Chung-fang Fukien has already arrived at e Kiangsi-Fukien border and on nday started his assault on Chu-ow in four directions.—Eastern imes.

Peking, September 9.—Tsao Kun eld an interview with Ex-premier ao Kwei-ching yesterday on the ukden situation. Pao left Peking mediately after. Before his de-arture, Tsao instructed him to ex-lain to the Mukden Chief the osition of the Central Government dealing with the Chekiang ques-on, and to urge Chang Tso-lin to efrain from hostilities and avoid isunderstanding.—Eastern Times.

Peking, September 9.—The pre-idents of the eight government chools in Peking tendered their esignation en bloc yesterday with he Ministry of Education. No date as yet been set for the reopening f the school.—Eastern Times.

Peking, September 9.—In re-ly to Marshal Wu Pei-fu, the Ministry of Foreign Affairs states hat it has already requested the oviet Envoy to stop Russians from participating in the Che-iang air service.—Shun Pao.

Peking, September 9.—The services of an American engineer have been secured by Wu Pei-fu for the construction of motor cars and airplanes in Loyang.—Shun Pao.

Peking, September 9.—Kiang-su officials and Parliamentarians in Peking have organised a War Relief Commission. Three circular telegrams have been sent out by the newly formed body. One urges Chi to restrict the conduct of his soldiers, another expressed disap-proval of the conflict and the third asks the Kiangsu districts to or-ganise their own volunteer corps to defend themselves.—Shun Pao.

Hongkong, September 9.—The type-setters of the Canton news-papers went on strike yesterday. No paper made its appearance this morning. In view of the lack of machinery for propaganda, the local authorities last night sent Sze Pu, a representative of the type-setters, to discuss the matter with the publishers, who present-ed three demands: 1. The striker shall receive no pay during the period of their strike. 2. The newspapers reserve the right to claim damages sustained as a re-sult of the suspension of their publications from the Type-set-ters' Union and, 3, No increase shall be allowed to the type-set-ters. When Sze Pu suggested that the publishers get their increase of income by raising the price of the papers, a representative of the newspaper distributor violently opposed, thus breaking up the conversation without accomplish-ing anything.—Shun Pao.

Peking, September 9.—In ac-cordance with the suggestions of the foreign residents in Shanghai, the Diplomatic Corps has propos-ed to take this opportunity of ex-tending the settlements on the ground that in view of the large influx of refugees there is not enough room to ac-commodate the residents. A meeting will be held on the sub-ject soon.—Sin Wan Pao.

Peking, September 9.—News from diplomatic circles indicate that Chang Tso-lin is about to move his troops and a serious change is going to be made in the political situation. The Mukden militarists have their objective on Jehol so that Peking could be easily encircled. This will not necessitate the use of the rail-ways and cause foreign complica-tions. Some foreign interference in the Kiangsu-Chekiang war is expected but at present no open attempt has yet been made to ameliorate the situations.—Sin Wan Pao.

Hongkong, September 9.—Dr. Sun Yet-sen has decided to make use of the arms of the Merchant Volunteer Corps for his Northern Expedition. As soon as he reaches Shankwan, he will make his wish public.—Sin Wan Pan.

Hankow, September 9.—The total number of rounds of am-munition ordered by Wu Pei-fu from the Hanyang and Kunghsien Arsenals was 2,000,000, which were shipped to Nanking on Sun-day night.—Sin Wan Pao.

Tsinan, September 9.—The Shan-tung Assembly at a meeting held yesterday decided to observe ab-solute neutrality in the Kiangsu-Chekiang war. The meeting passed a resolution to the effect that in view of the financial stringency of the province and the prevalence of brigandage, Shantung does not wish itself to be drawn into the civil strife.—Republican Daily News.

Peking, September 9.—The Pan Chuan Lama is expected to arrive here next month. A special bureau of entertainment has been created for the occasion.—Repub-lican Daily News.

ROTARIANS HEAR DR. SOWERBY; NEW TALKS ON WAR

Fur And Feather Around Shanghai Discussed At Meeting

Birds, beasts and various kinds of fish in and about Shanghai formed the topic of an interesting address delivered by Dr. A. de C. Sowerby of the Royal Asiatic Society, before the weekly meeting of the Shanghai Rotary Club yesterday at the Astor House. While the subject of natural history might be considered unimportant at a time when everybody was interested in war, said Dr. Sowerby, the public really owed a debt of gratitude to the geologist for his contribution to human welfare.

He illustrated his point with the case of the Frog Hopper, which threatened one year to destroy the entire sugar crop of the Hawaiian Islands. The biologist immediately set to work and discovered that the home of the pest was in Queensland and its parasite was a small wasp which destroyed its eggs readily. The adoption of the parasite in Hawaiia had now brought the pest under control.

There was a wealth of bird life in the vicinity of Shanghai, Dr. Sowerby said, but not many beasts, which latter class was limited to the rat, the mouse, the mint, bat, hare and a few others. Practically all the birds mentioned in Kipling books are to be found here, including the sparrow, the black bird, the paradise fly catcher, the golden oriole, the drake, the Indian cockoo, etc.

Turning to fins and scales, the speaker asserted that there were fine possibilities for fishing in this neighborhood. The rainbow carp in Hangchow and the Serpent head in Kinkiang furnish fine sport for the angler.

In conclusion, Dr. Sowerby pointed out the constant warfare among the birds of prey, the beasts and the fish as well as the savage cruelty between the various species. Yet it was through this process of cruelty that perfection is reached. This warfare was the only means whereby nature could evolve. When life became easy, the animal began to degenerate, he said.

Dr. W. S. New, field director of the Chinese Red Cross, gave a vivid description of his work at the front and stated that in view of the inability of the military surgeons to cope with the situation, he and his staff are working at present under high pressure. Of the 580 wounded handled by him, only 24 had died. There were not enough beds to accommodate the inmates at the seven hospitals reorganized for the Red Cross; and beds, as well as food and clothing are urgently needed for all. In order to relieve the distress and the pain of the wounded, he has ordered the injection of morphia in every serious case.

The winner of the annual golf tournament of the club was announced. He was Mr. J. J. Stafford and on account of his disposition, the presentation of the prize will take place at the next meeting.

Master Austin Zarnba, known in New York as the "Baby Caruso," delighted the gathering with a number of songs. "Don Emiquez" Gil of Argentine was a visiting Rotarian at the meeting and spoke on conditions in his country.

Japanese Freight Conference To Be Dissolved At Once

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

The Chairman of the conference declares that it has been very successful.

Fengtien Places Strong Forces On Manchurian Border

(Eastern News Agency)

Peking, Sept. 10.—The present force of the Fengtien troops in the Three Eastern Provinces consists of three divisions, 21 mixed brigades, and 4 cavalry brigades.

The troops, which are under direct control of Marshal Chang Tso-lin are 2 divisions, 11 mixed-brigades, consisting of 37 infantry regiments, some 11 cavalry regiments, and 4 artillery regiments.

In the district of Shanghaikwan, the 16th Brigade is stationed, in Hsingcheng the 4th Brigade, in Changwu the 14th Brigade, in Chengchiatun the 1st Brigade, and in Tungliao the 1st Cavalry Brigade.

Besides, in the northern part of the Three Eastern Provinces, there are stationed the 2nd, 6th, and 27th Infantry Brigades as well as the 3rd Cavalry Brigades whereas in the western part, there are 3rd, 25th, and 7th Infantry Brigades.

It is reported that the 2nd and 6th Brigades and the 1st Division of the Fengtien troops are composed of picked soldiers belonging to Marshal Chang Tso-lin.

Chapei Volunteers Are Given Pistols

Under orders of General Ho Feng-lin, Chapei police have provided the newly organised "Peace Maintenance Corps of "Chapei" with sixty Browning pistols and sixty boxes of ammunition, according to the Chinese press.

The corps was organised for the purpose of assisting the constabulary in preserving order in Chapei, and appealed to General Ho a few days ago for permits to carry pistols. A similar organisation is being effected in Nantao.

Parliament Quits As Result Of War

(Eastern News Agency)

Peking, Sept. 10.—At today's meeting of the Senate, a motion was made that Parliament be suspended for a fortnight on account of the disquieting situation prevailing throughout the country subsequent upon the outbreak of hostilities between Kiangsu and Chekiang, and as a result of discussion, it has been decided to suspend the session as from Tuesday next.

SAFEGUARD YOUR CHILDREN

Against Hot Weather Ailments By Keeping Baby's Own Tablets In Your Home.

It is foolish to give medicine to children who do not need it. But neglect is dangerous when the little ones show signs of sickness, especially during the hot months, for what appears to be a slight indisposition may rapidly develop into serious or even fatal illness at this time of year.

Most of the ailments of infants and young children arise from disordered stomach and bowels. It is by gently yet efficiently cleansing the bowels and sweetening the stomach that Baby's Own Tablets ward off attacks of cholera infantum, diarrhoea and dysentery, relieve colic, indigestion, croup and colds, reduce fever. They also alleviate the pains of teething, expel worms, soothe the nerves and quickly bring peaceful sound health restoring sleep in a perfectly natural way.

Baby's Own Tablets are guaranteed free from opiates and narcotics, and can do nothing but good to even the youngest infant. Of chemists, or post free, 60 cents the vial from Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., 60 Kiangse Road, Shanghai.

DR. A. P. PARKER, OLD MISSIONARY WORKER, IS DEAD

Veteran Chinese Linguist And Preacher Passes Away In Oakland

A cablegram has been received in Shanghai advising of the death of Rev. A. P. Parker, D.D., for almost a half century a missionary worker in China. Dr. Parker passed away in Oakland, Cal., on September 10. He will be mourned by many friends and associates in missionary work here.

Dr. Parker was 75 years of age at the time of his death, which was apparently due to general enfeeblement from advancing age, he having returned to America from China in July of last year on account of his steady decline in strength. Prior to that time Dr. Parker had been in China for almost fifty years, having arrived in Shanghai on Christmas Day, 1875, and remained here, except for short trips home or abroad, until July 7, 1923, when he left this country never to return.

The special talent of Dr. Parker was as a linguist, and his mastery of the Chinese language was very unusual. He was well acquainted with several dialects, and the work for which he will be remembered here is his translations from English into Chinese. A member of the Southern Methodist Mission, Dr. Parker devoted his splendid linguistic talents to the service of the Christian Literature Society, and almost innumerable translations of his live on to testify to his many years of work and service.

The deceased is survived by a brother in Shanghai, Dr. R. A. Parker, Official Translator and Director of Chinese Study for the Shanghai Municipal Council. The deepest sympathy of all goes out to Dr. Parker in his brother's death.

5 Chinese Arrested For Arms Dealings

Five Chinese were arrested by Detective Sergeant Forkin and Chinese detectives from Central Police Station in a raid on a room at the Dong Fong Hotel, 688 Chekiang Road. The police officers confiscated one .32 caliber automatic pistol, 106 rounds of ammunition, and one pistol magazine.

A Voice from the Dawn of the World—

"—the aeons of forgotten Time
When man was not!"

BEFORE man came, Time was. Not Time as we reckon it today; no mere minutes, but ages, aeons. A century flung into that dim abyss was as a raindrop swallowed up by the sea.

Against that vague, shadowy dawn of the world loomed huge, fearsome monsters—dinosaur, pterodactyl, mastodon—

It is a far, faint cry from the mists of the remote and unremembered past to the high-tension, split-second present.

Yet even there, in those strange, awesome animal bulks, was stirring the irresistible force of evolution—that eager upward urge of which was to emerge at last as man!

And the tireless flight of Father Time which spanned those colossal ages, is the same that measures our work and our lives today.

If your brief span in Time is not measured accurately send your timepiece to our

Art Of Ham-Smeller Is Like That Of Tea-Taster

The proof of the ham is in the smell, so years of experience have taught American wholesale meat packers. Thus has come into existence a calling little known in the world outside the cattle and hog market, though highly valued therein. No pork packer is without his ham-smeller.

This ham-smeller is a specialist. Long years of work in the packing house have so attuned his nose that no flaw can escape his detection. He can stand any amount of smiffing in one day and still have a nose for his dinner at the end of it. The packing house may have hams stacked by the thousand and cured in a lot. Then the ham-smeller gets busy, since each must pass the test of his nostrils. He picks one up after another. With a whiff and a quick decision he passes it on to the shipping pile or into the discard for further curing; then he takes up the next in order.

He may thus test from one to three thousand in a day. In large houses, where many thousands of hams are turned out each day, there may be a corps of ham-smellers upon whom the firm depends largely for upholding its reputation.

The ham-smeller is perhaps unique in his line, but his calling is one of a family of related occupations. Closely akin to him is the tea-taster. Every large tea warehouse has its laboratory with rows of cups of steaming tea. Tea-time lasts all day for the professional taster. He is responsible for the quality of the blends his firm puts on the market.

These men, as a rule, are highly paid experts, infallible in their fine distinction among teas. A quid of tobacco is the constant companion of the tea-taster. Tobacco, he points out, has a neutral taste; and so, with a chew between drinks, he can be sure that none of the first cup's flavor will linger to interfere with the tasting of the second cup.

Coffee-tasters, likewise, keep a neutral taste in their mouths, but they usually select cigars. Smoking and tasting go on by turns. Some wholesale coffee houses employ men who do nothing but taste cup after cup of coffee and pass judgment upon the flavor.

"It is impossible to tell just how you do this tasting," said F. Cauchois, member of a wholesale coffee house. "You cannot tell people how to distinguish flavors. You just know how to do it, that's all; but it takes years of experience to learn. Coffee is bought by the importer on its appearance. A man is sent to the plantation to examine the size and color of the bean, and so on. From the importer the wholesaler buys it by taste. He must make a cup of coffee and test it. Often you have to taste as many as 125 cups at a time—all with different flavors—for one kind of coffee alone. We also take various kinds and blend them. A blend may be made out of seven or eight different kinds. If one of these runs short, we have to replace it by taste, so that the blend will continue the same."

Gigantic Cotton Crop Is Predicted In America

Washington, August 8.—A cotton crop two million in excess of that of last year was forecast today by the crop reporting board of the Department of Agriculture on the basis of the situation as August 1. On that date the condition of the crop was estimated to be 67.4 percent of normal, on the basis of which the board predicted a crop of 12,351,000 500-pound bales. The crop last year was 10,128,478 bales. If the board's predictions are fulfilled this year's crop will be the largest since that of 1920.

In making public its forecast, the board pointed out that the final outturn of the crop may be larger or smaller, as developments during the remainder of the season prove more or less favorable to the crop than usual. Reports to the board indicated that the crop is doing splendidly in most of Texas and Arkansas and in Oklahoma and Tennessee. It is suffering from drouth, following excessive rains in South Carolina and Georgia. The boll weevil damage this year in most areas is negligible. More damage has been done to cotton crops by grasshoppers than by the weevils.

ESTIMATES ARE INCREASED

The August forecast increases prospective production 417,000 bales over the official estimate of 11,934,000 bales based on condition report of July 16, and adds 207,000 bales to the estimate based on preliminary condition reports as of June 25.

If the figures accord with final production, the 1924 cotton crop will exceed the average for the preceding four-year period by 2,031,000 bales, or 16.1 percent, and the average yield from 1914 to 1919, inclusive, by 850,000 bales. Average production from 1910 to 1914, inclusive, was 14,289,231 bales.

Condition at August 1 was 67.4 percent of normal, as compared with 68.5 percent on July 16, and 71.2 on June 25, and 65.6 percent on May 25. The decline in condition of only 1.1 points, due to advance of the season, was accompanied by a good increase in acre yield, which is placed as at August 1 at about 148.3 pounds, as against 141.3 pounds July 16.

Comparison of condition figures follow as of August 25 of a series of months, except for July and August, 1924, in which under the Department of Agriculture's new plan of cotton crop reporting, condition is shown respectively as of the 16th and 1st of the month:

	May	June	July	Aug.	Sept.
1924	65.6	71.2	68.5	..	..
1923	71.0	69.9	67.2	67.4	49.5
1922	69.6	71.4	70.3	67.0	50.0
1921	66.0	69.2	64.7	49.8	42.2
1920	62.4	70.7	74.1	67.6	59.1
1919	75.6	70.0	67.1	61.4	54.4
1918	82.3	85.8	73.6	55.7	54.4
1917	69.5	70.6	70.3	67.8	60.4
1916	77.5	81.1	72.3	61.2	56.3
1915	80.0	80.2	75.4	60.2	60.8
1914	71.3	79.6	76.4	78.0	75.6

CONDITION AND YIELD

Figures follow of August 1, 1924, condition and yield estimate as compared with condition and yield estimate of July 25 in a number of preceding years and final production for those years:

	Condition.	Yield, estim'ed.	Final crop.
August 1, 1924.	67.4	12,351,000	....
July 25, 1923.	67.2	11,516,000	10,128,478
25, 1922.	70.7	11,065,000	9,761,817
25, 1921.	64.7	8,453,000	7,953,641
25, 1920.	74.1	11,450,000	13,439,603

There was condition improvement between July 16 and August 1 in North Carolina, South Carolina, Arkansas, Tennessee, Missouri, 7 points, Oklahoma, 4, California, and in cotton producing states, of 4 points. There was as of August 1 a decline from July 16 condition in Virginia, Georgia, Florida, Mississippi, Louisiana, 8 points, Texas, 3, and Arizona.

Virginia	51	54	88
North Carolina	58	56	82
South Carolina	60	59	64
Georgia	73	76	48
Florida	75	76	52
Alabama	70	70	60
Mississippi	67	70	65
Louisiana	58	66	68
Texas	66	69	71
Arkansas	71	70	68
Tennessee	69	68	69
Missouri	72	65	70
Oklahoma	76	72	62
California	91	90	88
Arizona	92	94	91
New Mexico	83	83	85
All others	74	70	..

29,025 BALES GINNTD

The report, issued jointly with the Census Bureau, said that 29,924 running bales, counting round as half bales, were ginned prior to August 1. Ginnings prior to August 1 last year totaled 64,881 running bales. Ginnings by states were not announced, as most of the cotton ginned prior to August 1 was in Texas.

The joint report on condition and ginnings today was the first issued under the law passed by Congress in April this year which requires the ginning and condition reports to be issued simultaneously. Joint reports will be issued at the Department of Agriculture throughout the growing and ginning season until the middle of December, when the Department of Agriculture makes its final estimate of cotton production. Issuance of the ginning reports thereafter will be from the Census Bureau.

WOMEN MAKE PLEA FOR SUGAR DUTY CUT IN AMERICA

Say Consumers Have Right To Relief; Submit A Petition

New York, August 9.—The New York City Women's Market Committee, composed of 800 women's organisations and said to represent 1,000,000 housewives of this city, yesterday forwarded a petition to President Coolidge, asking him to to order a reduction of the duty on sugar, in accordance with the recommendations contained in the majority report of the Tariff Commission.

The petition said in part:

"Your party platform specifically indorsed the flexible provisions of the tariff law, including any general provisions to take care of an emergency, thus placing all the power to act on such an occasion in the hands of the President.

EMENGENCY HAS ARISEN

"Such an emergency has arisen; there is every good and just reason for you to use your prerogative in this instance. A majority of the Tariff Commission has recognised this fact and has made recommendations to you.

"Times are notably hard and people are out of work. Sugar is one of the best forms of energy and should be kept within the reach of all by means of the lowest consistent price.

"A canning and preserving season is at hand. Fruit is plentiful. The time to make the use of sugar available is now—not after election.

TARIFF NOT BE PERMANENT

"You are doubtless aware that the present high tariff rate was imposed during the period of deflation and was never intended to remain permanently.

"We understand it was for the purpose to afford relief that the flexible provisions were incorporated in the tariff law.

"Although the prosperity of the people seems receding, the prosperity of the domestic and other tariff favored sugar interests, judging by their financial reports and increased dividends, has been assured. Consumers are therefore entitled to relief."

The petition says that Italy, Canada and England are giving relief from high sugar duty costs to the consumer.

WHEAT IS MOVING

Canadian Crops Being Rushed Eastward For Shipment

Winnipeg, August 4.—Probably in no other portion of the world are the railways called upon to handle such an abnormal amount of traffic as are those of Canada during the autumn months when the grain of the Prairie Provinces is being rushed to the head of navigation prior to the freezing up of the harbors at the head of the Great Lakes waterways system.

Preparations are now under way for the movement of the crop, this taking the form of endeavoring to place on western farms as many harvesters as possible from the east to help in garnering the crop. The actual number of men required for this purpose is not as yet known, but it will be large. Last year, in order to secure sufficient help, about 5,000 harvesters were brought from Great Britain.

Hongkong Stocks

Messrs. Moxon & Taylor's weekly share report dated Hongkong, September 5, states:

Our market continues very firm and a large business has been done both for cash and forward. Investment stocks continue in good demand with more buyers than sellers.

The Shanghai market continues quiet.

The following are the principal alterations since last week:

Hongkong Banks:—Buyers continue offering $122.00 without obtaining shares.

Unions:—Are very firm and, as we go to press, have been done at $237.

Hotels.—Are one of the few Stocks that have been almost neglected during the week but at the close there is some enquiry.

Hongkong Lands:—Have eased off slightly but close firm with buyers at $117 cash and $120 October without attracting sellers.

Humphreys.—Are in good demand and have come to business at $24.

Cements: Have declined slightly, but at the close are steadier with more enquiry, and Combined shares are wanted at $24½ cash and $25¼ for December.

Kowloon Wharves:—Had a smart drop at the beginning of the week but close firm with buyers at $213 cash and $217 for October with no sellers.

Hongkong Docks:—Have been the medium of a large business at rising prices closing very firm with buyers at $173 cash.

Shanghai Docks:—Are unchanged at quotations.

Hongkong Ropes:—Have also been the medium of a fair business with buyers at $63 for Combined shares.

Hongkong Electrics:—Are very firm and have risen to a buying rate of $43¼.

Hongkong Trams:—After a slight decline have again risen to a buying rate of $43 cash.

Peak Trams:—Continue in good demand but few shares are obtainable.

China Sugars:—Have been the medium of a sensational rise closing firm at $405 cash, business having been done at $420 for September and $430 for October.

China Providents:—Are in good demand and a considerable number of Old shares have changed hands at $17 and the New at $5.10.

China Lights:—Have also been the medium of a large business both for cash and forward and close very firm with buyers at $24¼.

Dairy Farms:—Have been slightly easier but at the close are in some demand for forward delivery.

Lane Crawfords:—Are wanted at $18¼ without attracting sellers.

Steamboats:—Have been the medium of considerable business during the week but close easier with sellers at $51 for October and $49 cash.

London Quotations of the 4th inst:—Hongkong Banks £137.-10/-, Indos Deferred £13, Shells £4.1.3.

Exchange:—The demand selling rate on London is 2/4 7/16 and the T. T. on Shanghai is Tls.71⅝.

ROMANCE OF KIN CARRIES HER FORTUNE

School Teacher Gets Half Million From Man Her Grandma Spurned

New York, Aug. 5.—A few minutes after she had dismissed her third grade in public school 3, in West New York, N. J., one afternoon last April, Miss Rosalie Elizabeth Wurthman was summoned to the principal's office to answer a telephone call.

"Rosalie?" the voice inquired.

"Yet."

"This is mother, Rosalie. I have good news for you."

"I'm listening," said Rosalie.

"You're sole beneficiary of a fortune of half a million dollars left ——"

LIFE PLAYS PRANK

Incredulous, Rosalie interrupted an exclamation. Her mother tried to continue talking. The school teacher's eyes suddenly lighted on a calendar in the principal's office and she laughed.

"Oh," she interrupted a second time. "I had almost forgotten."

"Forgotten what?" her mother asked.

"That it's April Fools' day."

"But I'm serious," her mother persisted. "Rosalie, you'd better come home immediately."

"Very well."

It was on April Fools' day, 1924, that life, wearied of the commonplace, borrowed a theme from the movies and made 21-year-old Rosalie Elizabeth Wurthman of Jersey City its bewildered and incredulous heroine—the sole legatee to an estate valued at $545,000.

In invading Hollywood's domain life had not scrupled to measure its encroachment. The bequest, Rosalie learned, was from a 94-year-old recluse who had courted unsuccessfully her grandmother in Germany more than sixty years ago.

The testator was Louis T. Lehmeyer, who died last November in a squalid flat on one of the upper floors of an East Fifty-fifth street tenement house in New York city.

Lehmeyer was a prospeorus merchant in a thriving village in Saxony when the school teacher's grandmother was enjoying the frivolities of eighteen. The story of the grandmother, unfolded under the oppression of inquiry since the strange bequest was made public, describes her as a rosy-checked, blonde haired and vivacious vixen. A dozen or more eligibles of the day sought her in marriage. Lehmeyer was not the least ardent of these.

BASIS FOR TRAGEDY

In spurning Lehmeyer in favor of another the grandmother unwittingly established the basis for the tragedy of his life —a tragedy as fabulous and grotesque in its enduring consistency as classic literature can duplicate.

Chagrined and despairing Lehmeyer emigrated to the United States after selling his business in Saxony. He settled in New York and made cautious investments in real estate. He lived alone, a melancholy and misanthropic figure. He never married.

Other details of his life are shrouded in mystery, a mystery even the beneficiaries of his last testament are unwilling to penetrate.

Three years before his death Lehmeyer learned that the daughter and granddaughter of the girl he loved sixty years ago lived in Jersey City.

He sought them and visited the house twice. On his last visit to the unpretentious dwelling at No. 26 Reservoir avenue, he met Rosalie, then about the same age as the grandmother he had courted sixty years before.

He observed a striking resemblance between grandmother and granddaughter, the former the love of his youth in the Saxony village. The next time Miss Wurthmeyer heard of him was when she was announced as the legatee of $545,000

SKEPTICAL AT FIRST

At first the school teacher was sceptical of the bequest. It seemed too fantastical. She continued to teach her third grade class in public school No. 3 in West New York and to reporters who besieged her for interviews she calmly announced that her plans were unchanged.

"I'll go on teaching just the same," she said.

Rosalie Elizabeth Wurthman, however, changed her mind with the first installments on the fortune.

West New York awoke one morning to discover a brilliant red roadster of foreign manufacture parked at the curb in front of public school No. 3.

"Some car," was the unanimous comment. "Whose it is?"

Miss Wurthman's."

China's "Best Young Men" And The Present War Situation

A CERTAIN foreign lady newly arrived in China was reading the account published in The China Press a few days ago stating that many of the Chinese colleges and universities would not be able to open on account of the war situation. After reading the item, she turned to a friend and said:

"Of course, the schools will not be able to open; all of China's best young men will be at the front!"

This was, of course, a perfectly natural remark for a person to make based upon a background of experience in almost any other land than China. When the World-War broke out, the "best young men" everywhere rushed to the colors on all sides and they did their part for what they thought was a just cause. And they were right, according to their various backgrounds and surroundings, regardless of which side of the struggle they happened to be on. They rushed to the defence of their countries and what they considered to be sacred, and, sad to relate, many thousands of them left their bodies there.

But what about the "best young men" of China? A few days ago The China Press tried to induce one of China's "best young men," a graduate of a local college, to accompany one of our correspondents to the front lines at Liuho in order to act as interpreter. After considerable argument, the young men agreed to go, but when the motor car was stopped at the borders of Chapei to make inquiries regarding the situation from some soldiers standing near the road, our student-interpreter got out of the car and disappeared. When our correspondent got back from the front, he asked the Chinese young man what had happened—where he had gone, and so on. Wong replied.

"I couldn't go with you because I had forgotten my raincoat!"

It is not our purpose to criticise China's "best young men" as a class. There probably are hundreds of Chinese young men—college students and graduates—helping in this war at the various headquarters, in Government service operating railroad trains, the telegraphs—doing their bit. There is Dr. W. S. New, a Harvard graduate, who did not wait for the war to start but got on the job and organised a Red Cross unit and had it in readiness to care for the wounded. When the fight started, Dr. New went to the front, and, with practically no equipment, has been doing wonderful work in saving lives and attending the injured. One day he worked from five o'clock in the morning until seven at night at Liuho, giving temporary relief to the wounded as they were brought in and then went to Woosung and superintended the transportation of several serious cases from the military hospital there to Shanghai. He got back to Shanghai at ten o'clock at night and then worked in the operating room at the Red Cross Hospital until four the next morning. Then, after two hours' sleep, he got up and went back to Liuho. Altogether Dr. New now has nearly a thousand wounded men under his care in the various hospitals, and, in addition to the work he is doing on the Chekiang side, he has gotten another Red Cross unit together for service on the Kiangsu side.

Dr. New has not worried about the right or wrong of this senseless fight between two Chinese militarists. But he got into it and has accomplished a tremendous amount of good. He probably will receive no pay and little thanks for his service, but at least he will have the satisfaction of knowing that he did something to relieve the suffering of his fellow-countrymen, and he will be honored for it.

But what of the thousands of other Chinese young men, many of them with modern educations? What are they doing in the war, further than reading the newspaper accounts of the fighting and talking it over in the tea houses—and doing this in a safe refuge protected by foreign forces? Of course, not everyone has an opportunity for service such as the Red Cross offered for Dr. New, but this is a time when people create opportunities for themselves. Perhaps these young men might be doing something to stop the war; doing something to make such fights as this unnecessary or impossible. There may be other ways which suggest themselves, and, of course, there is always room in the front lines.

The trouble with the great majority of China's "best young men" as and of many of her best men of all ages, is that they have no interest in this fight except to stay clear of it. It is not their fight. It is General Wu Pei-fu's fight, or Chang Tso-ling's or Chi Shih-yuan's or Lu Yung-hsiang's fight. It does not concern them one way or the other. The Chinese merchants in Shanghai did concern themselves a few months ago and forced a temporary peace, but they permitted the situation to get away from them this time. Now we have accounts in the papers of factories being closed, of wealthy merchants being "squeezed" by the militarists for funds, of thousands of laborers from the factories being conscripted into the various armies, of thousands of farmers and shop-keepers and people of property leaving their homes in the country and nearby cities and flocking to Shanghai for protection.

We suppose that if China got into a war with a foreign nation, China's "best young men" would get into it. At least we have enough propaganda against the foreigner in peace times on the subject of foreign aggression! But it is not the foreigner who is wrecking China. It is China herself. It is the self-seeking militarists first and second it is China's "best young men" who have little interest in what the militarists are doing to the land and are making no effort to stop the outrage.

Pershing's Last Review

(Contributed)

WITH his attainment of the age of 64 years, John Joseph Pershing, General of the Armies of the United States, hands over his duties as chief-of-staff at midnight tonight and passes into the list of retired officers. Throughout the United States and its possessions, and in the minds of Americans resident elsewhere, there will be a thought of sadness at the passing of this truly wonderful soldier who has meant so much to the public mind of America throughout the past 12 years—or since he had command of the punitive expedition into Mexico, in March, 1916, that chased Pancho Villa to the hills after his murderous attack on Columbus, New Mexico, under cover of night.

To the average American, General Pershing always will be known for his ideal leadership of the American Expeditionary Forces overseas in the World War. There his tenacity of purpose in the many conflicting topics of the Allied military leaders, and his superb organisation of the American service behind the lines have been dimmed, somewhat, by the records of his troops in the field and trenches.

The background for his European career was gained during the many years he spent in the Philippine Islands and other parts of the Far East. His first taste of war was during the Indian uprisings in the Western states from 1886 to 1891. Later he served in the Tenth Cavalry during the Spanish-American War, and it was he who organised the Bureau of Insular Affairs, at the head of which he remained late in 1899. Then he was sent to the Philippines, where he first was adjutant-general of the Department of Mindinao and later commanded military operations against the Moros. Then he served as military attache in Tokio after being with Kuroki's army in Manchuria in 1906, still later returning to Mindinao as commander of the American forces and governor of Moro Province. The Battle of Bagsak (June 12, 1913) was the decisive triumph for the cause of civilisation against its opponents, and shortly after that General Pershing left the islands for other duties in the United States, Mexico, and Europe. His building of the Overton-Keithley Highway, extending 19 miles from Camp Overton at sea-level to Camp Keithley, 2500 feet above the sea, is considered the acme of his extensive construction work there. Mr. William A. Chapman, Clerk of the United States Court for China, was his chief clerk during the years of his second residence in Mindinao.

It is highly probable that General Pershing will visit the Far East in the not distant future. He admits the possession of what he calls "the fever of the Far East" and has told friends that just as soon as he retires he meant to come back to China, the Philippines, and Japan "to loaf along at my pleasure." To one of these visitors who, in April, 1922, was coming to Shanghai, the General said: "So you are going to Shanghai. Lucky dog! Some of my fondest recollections are of vacations spent there and of the friends I made. Gee! I wish I were going with you."

The doctrine of national defense has been uppermost since his return to the States from Europe. As a fitting climax to his long army career, there is to be held today in the United States a nation-wide demonstration by the combined military and naval units of every description. Thousands of members of the National Reserve Army and hundreds of thousands of National Guardsmen in every part of the country will turn out to march in processions and listen to addresses by civic leaders on "National Defense." Figuratively, the General of the Armies will stand in review as these million and more men pass by, and he has expressed the hope that each of these peace-time soldiers will carry with him through life this sentence: "Prepare and you won't be attacked!"

A Case Of Moral Perversion

ONE of the most sensational trials in America has just concluded at Chicago with the sentencing to life imprisonment of Richard Loeb and Nathan Leopold, nineteen-year old students of the Chicago University and sons of two Chicago millionaires, for the crime of kidnapping and murdering the 14-year old schoolboy, Robert Franks, son of a well-known Chicago business man, from whom the accused demanded $10,000 ransom. The case has aroused the greatest excitement, and we are told that the police were forced to take extraordinary measures to prevent a demonstration when the sentence was pronounced on Wednesday. Threats to lynch the accused had been freely made, and many persons connected with the case had received anonymous letters from the Ku Klux Klan and other secret societies. The sole reason that life imprisonment, instead of sentence of death, has been inflicted on the two youths is that no minor has ever been sentenced to death in the State of Illinois on a plea of guilty. While finding no element of mitigation in the crime itself, in the personality of the accused, the presiding Judge accepted full responsibility in declining to impose a death penalty on minors, and to that fact alone is to be attributed the slayers' immunity from the supreme penality which the law prescribes for the crime of murder.

Every now and then, the civilised and law-abiding sections of society in Europe and America are profoundly shocked by cases of moral degeneracy and perversion which show how really thin, after all, is the veneer of education and high social standing in the case of certain people. In the case of Loeb and Leopold, we have a striking illustration of the fact that money can sometimes become a curse instead of a blessing. These misguided youths had everything that money could buy—all the finer graces of life denied to countless thousands—yet they planned a crime with a coldbloodedness and premeditation with few parallels in the annals of crime. When asked, after their arrest, if money had anything to do with it, both Leopold and Loeb said it was part of the plan. There were no expressions of remorse, and Loeb, in reply to a question as to the motive, said: "It was done in a spirit of adventure." When Leopold was asked why he committed such a crime, he replied: "I don't know why in the world I did it." He was asked if he did not know what he was doing and he said he did. He was asked if he knew the criminal nature of what he was doing and he said he did. Leopold's confession, which formed part of the court records, was an astounding document.

There will always be found people whose mental and moral constitution unfit them entirely for any part in society. They are anti-social and unsocial in all their conclusions, as in the case of the two unhappy youths just sentenced called in the course of the hearing said: "They would not be satisfied in heaven and they probably would wreck hell."

Radio Plays Doctor For Sailors At Sea

A sick or injured sailor at sea, even half way across the Atlantic, can depend today upon receiving free medical advice by radio from New York at any hour of the day or night in less than twenty minutes. It is not uncommon for half a dozen calls for medical aid to be picked up in a single day.

A medical call takes precedence over all other radio communications, with the single exception of the S O S. New York picks up these calls as a rule at the Bush Terminal station. From there they are relayed by telephone to the Hudson Street Hospital. The free radio treatment is a twenty-four-hour service, and when the call is received at the hospital a physician is assigned to the case. In some cases half a dozen physicians or surgeons are called in consultation, so that the sailor enjoys, always free of expense, the services of the best talent available in New York.

Nothing is left to chance. A radio operator is constantly on the alert for such calls, and soon after the message is received by the hospital the physician prepares his answer. His advice is usually recorded by dictaphone, and when this record has been made it is transmitted to the radio operator, who in turn transmits it to the vessel calling for help. The doctor's advice thus becomes a matter of definite record.

RADIO ADVICE IS FREE

An extensive system of receiving stations along the Atlantic seaboard is at the disposal of the sick or injured sailor. The cost of transmitting messages is defrayed by the Radio Corporation of America. Whatever the cost may be for medical or surgical advice by one or half a dozen experts, the expense is met by the United States Public Health Service. This unique service was originated by the Seamen's Church Institute.

In the beginning the service was effective only over a range of some forty miles. Today radio stations are in commission at New York, Chatham, Mass., and Cape May on the Atlantic coast, and at Los Angeles and San Francisco on the Pacific. The service has been copied to some extent in Northern Europe, although several countries with large merchant marines have failed to adopt it.

Among the countless messages that pass through the air none perhaps are so dramatic as the medical questions and answers. A tragedy of the sea was briefly told in a series of radio messages picked up at the New York station recently. The first message from the ship read: "Master has attack of acute indigestion, now unconscious. Please advise. Rush." The reply from the physicians in New York reached the ship within a few minutes. It read: "Put man in bed and keep warm. How long been sick? What is temperature and pulse? Has he pain? What is condition of his pupils, whether dilated or contracted? What kind of medicine given, if any?"

The reply came: "Has been complaining forty-eight hours. Patient wrapped in blankets, given peppermint, aromatic spirits of ammonia and whisky. Has been unconscious one hour and ten minutes; appears to be still alive." To this the doctors responded: "Continue hot pack. No medicine; advise in one hour." At the end of the hour the ship said: "Master is apparently dead. Unable to detect pulse or heart beats; advise test for ascertaining death."

ANNOUNCE SKIPPERS DEATH

The hospital by this time had obviously made its own conclusion. The next message read: "Test would be unable to detect heartbeats or pulse. Pupils don't react; please give final report." The ship then replied: "Patient apparently dead. No heart or pulse since 3:35 p. m. Greenwich; mean time pupils have contracted. Have tested for respiration with mirror. Body getting cold." The despatches closed with direction for preserving the body.

There is, at times, a less tragic sends to the radio messages. A recent call announced, "Have man who is morphine addict. Taken drug fifteen years, but has no more. Have given him bromide. Would advise me to make port. Can do so in twenty-four hours." The reply read: "If possible keep patient in bed. Give plenty of tea, coffee, lemonade, do not give opium, don't worry. Allow for patient's exaggeration of symptoms. Don't put ashore."

In the middle of the night a radio operator recently picked up the following: "Please give treatment swollen gums, decayed teeth." The sailor hundreds of miles at sea received a few minutes later the following advice: "Paint swollen gums with tincture of iodine. Be careful to keep on gums only. Apply hot compress over face afflicted most, wash mouth with salt solution." Where else in the world would a sailor with a toothache receive better treatment?

A common type of message reads as follows: "Fireman becomes rigid, froths at mouth, heart labors and is irregular, also struggles violently. Advise treatment." The reply follows: "Put patient to bed and put pencil between teeth to prevent biting tongue. Use hot water bag and give bromide." Another common inquiry reads: "Have sick man on board, symptoms severe pain in right groin. Advise treatment." The reply reads: "Absolute rest. Apply ice to right groin, liquid diet."

TIMELY SURGICAL ADVICE

The radio has saved many lives by giving timely surgical advice. The following inquiry was received recently at 1:51 a.m. which indicates its urgency. It read: "Patient has broken scalp. His head split open, losing blood, requires advice." The advice was: "Sew small piece of gauze into wound and apply gauze to wound with pressure. Put patient to bed." Another radio message stated: "Have man with finger, right hand, cut clean off, bone exposed. Caught in machinery. please advise." The advice was as follows: "Apply gauze dressing with bandage. If infection occurs put in very hot water every two hours. If necessary ask for further instructions."

The cases are not always so serious. The captain of one vessel saw fit recently to radio as follows: "Patient susceptible to malaria. Temperature not high. Gave fifteen grains quinine. Felt good this morning, had breakfast and supper, walked on deck 9 p.m. Got chill, temperature 96. Please advise." The captain was advised: "Put patient to bed, external heat for chills. Hot drinks, 10 grains quinine four times a day. If ears ring report tomorrow." The following day the ship said: "Refer to sick man here. treatment has improved him. Not much fever, craving food. Any other advice appreciated." The hospital replied in turn: "Continue treatment. For food soups, eggs, crackers, fruits, soft vegetables, and occasional boiled meat. If necessary keep in bed till fever disappears."

A radio call was picked up in New York from a ship anchored in the harbor of Baltimore, stating the condition of one ofits crew. The case was seen to be very serious. A radio message was sent to a hospital in Baltimore to send an ambulance to a dock near the ship. At the same time the captain was advised to take the patient to the dock, where he found the ambulance waiting. The man was in the hospital a few minutes later.

Men Who Made Their Own Telescopes

BY GARRETT P. SERVISS

I am sometimes asked for advice on home-made telescopes My advice is: Do not try to make a telescope unless you possess one or both of these two advantages: First, you should be a practiced and skilful mechanic; second, you should be able to grind and polish glass lenses as that work is done in optical shops.

It is more likely that you should be a good mechanic than that you should understand the less common art of the lens-grinder. Of course you could, if you would, acquire both of these necessary qualifications solely for the sake of making a telescope, as the great astronomer William Herschel did. But in our day not many would go to so much expense of time and labor unless intending to learn to make telescopes as a business. Herschel had to make his own, and first to learn how, because there was no one else to do the work for him—at least as he wanted to have it done.

If you have he needed mechanical skill, but not the art of glass-grinding, then you may make the tube and the mounting for your telescope; but you must buy the lenses. You may thus save a good deal of expense, for a good mounting is costly, but, still, the principal lens—the object-glass—is also costly.

A three-inch one may cost as much as a hundred dollars, or more, according to the make; and the price goes up disproportionately with increase of size, just as happens with diamonds. Then you need several eye-pieces, of different powers, and they will cost several dollars apiece. A totally reflecting prism is a great convenience to save twisting the neck in looking at objects high in the heavens, and that may cost ten dollars. There is a recent American work on the telescope by Dr. Louis Bell which affords many valuable practical hints.

There is one thing to be said in favor of making one's own telescope, independent of the saving of expense, and that concerns the pride and personal satisfaction which the achievement affords and also the practical knowledge that you gain about the stars and about the powers and peculiarities of telescopes, while the work is going on. This is particularly true if you make your own object-glass. You have to test it on the stars, and for that purpose you have first to know the "lay of the land" among the stars and to get acquainted with uranography—the geography of the heavens. You also absorb much practical knowledge of optics.

A remarkable example of the reaction of telescope-making upon the minds of amateur makers has been seen at Springfield, Vermont, where, under the general guidanc of Russell W. Porter, whose "garden-telescope" I recently described here, more than a dozen skilled machinists, connected with a well known tool factory, undertook each to make his own telescope. In this case the reflector type was chosen instead of the refractor, chiefly, I believe, because the mirror used by the reflector is less costly to make than the double object-glass of the refractor.

The self-taught telescope makers, all, of course, very skilful and accurate workers with their hands and eyes, learned to perform the delicate optical tests required for the proper shaping of their concave mirrors, constructed their tubes and mountings, with all their details, each following his own fancy wherever there was liberty of choice, and thus they succeeded in turning out a battery of telescopes, which were exhibited at the country fair, where one observant farmer opined that the curious thing he was looking at was "one of those new kind of washing machines."

But one cloudless night they assembled on the top of one of the Green Mountains, where, says Mr. Porter, "throughout the night, although a strong wind was blowing, they unlocked one after another of the heavenly secrets and around the campfire freshed out many a weighty problem in celestial mechanics."

Since then they have kept up their studies, and in Winter evenings they gather at one or another's house, and discuss astronomy, and the fine points in telescope making. This kind of thing revives one's pride in humanity.

DRESS

By Mary Marshall

The Sheer White Fichu is Gaining Favor With the Well-dressed Young Woman Here and in France.

The fashion of the fichu may not be the least bit in keeping with the modes or manners of the present time. It may be as inconsistent with the clothes women wear today as verses of Tennyson would be in a collection of modern vers libre. But the fact remains that some of the cleverest of French dressmakers are making use of the fichu, and they are doing it because some of the best dressed of the younger fashionable women in France are very partial to the fichu. They find it becoming and they are proving that this is a device that really may be worn as well with a straight, close silhouette as with the bouffant and balooning silhouette of the mid-Victorians or the pre-revolutionary period in France.

Marie Antoinette was extremely fond of this fashion, but the fichu of today is not exactly the real Marie Antoinette fichu. Hers went upon the shoulders something like a cape, pointing downward somewhat at the back. At the front it met and the long ends crossed, passed around the waist and tied at the back. The fichu of today usually merely meets at the front, where it is held in place with a brooche of some sort. Many women find this meeting of the ends of the fichu an excellent place for the displaying of an antique brooch or cameo.

No one knew better than the artist Gainsborough the charming possibilities of a well arranged fichu, and none of his subjects wore it with greater grace than the Duchess of Devonshire, whose portrait by Gainsborough has made justly famous the "Gainsborough hat."

The fichu of today is not unlike hers. Of sheerest white fabric, it is trimmed only by a double ruffle of the same material—after the manner of the one in Gainsborough's portrait. The sketch shows how this type of fichu, of white chiffon, is worn with a plaid frock and fastened at the front with a large antique brooch.

White chiffon fichu fastened with old brooch and worn with plaid silk frock.

WISE AND OTHERWISE

THE NEGLECTED WAIST LINE

"I sincerely hope," said a woman of thirty years the other day, "that before I grow positively decrepit, slender waists will come back into fashion. I've a naturally slender waist," she sighed, "but when I wear the clothes of the present mode I might as well have a shape like a meal sack. The only thing that counts is the size of your hips."

Doubtless there are other women, naturally proportioned with slender waists or a gracefully modeled back who rebel against the present styles. It is true indeed now-a-days that a woman is no slenderer than her hips. In other words she is no more slender than her widest girth.

Once it was regarded as a sign of beauty as well as of nobility and arisocratic heritage to possess a tapering waist. Poets wrote sonnets to slender waists and odes to small girdles. Even when tight lacing was scorned and only a naturally slender waist was admired, still this trait was looked upon as one of women's chief attractions.

An old-fashioned writer ennumerating the "signs of beauty" in a woman, says that of all the indications of beauty he ranks first a gracefully and naturally slender waist. Clear and brilliant skin, he ranks second, a "handsome mouth" next and after that, a well shaped nose, and bright well colored eyes.

But who thinks of slender waist now-a-days?

WITH CHOCOLATE

Chocolate Custard

One quart milk, 4 eggs, 4 tablespoons grated chocolate, 1 cup sugar. Scald chocolate, sugar and milk together, add eggs well beaten, flavor with vanilla.

Chocolate Blanc-mange

Grate two squares of bitter chocolate and cook to a smooth paste in a little water. Heat six cupfuls of milk in a double boiler th a pinch of salt, six tablespoonfuls of sugar, and a teaspoonful of vanilla. Add the chocolate, and cook until smooth and thick, stirring constantly. Take from the fire, add a package of gelatine which has been soaked and dissolved, mould, chill and serve with cream, either whipped or plain.

Helps Children Over Hot Weather

Summer complaint makes little headway with children whose careful mothers use Chamberlain's Colic and Diarrhoea Remedy for stomach and bowel complaint, severe and sudden intestinal cramps and weakening diarrhoea. Given in a little sweetened water it is easy to take. For sale everywhere.

Mother's Advice

MOTHER'S final advice to her daughter is indeed a wise one. Mother knows the trouble ahead of her daughter if she fails to keep her health. So, she reminds the young bride not to forget the compound, which helped her through many a trying period and has kept her vigorous and well.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has been recommended by one woman to another for many years.

If you have that depressed sensation—if you are nervous or run-down—if your complexion is ruined periodically, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will quickly restore you to normal.

LODGING HOUSES BOOSTING RATES, SOCIETY CLAIMS

Warning Is Sent Not To Take Advantage Of Present Situation Here

Charges that lodging house keepers in Shanghai are taking advantage of the tremendous influx of refugees from the war zones into the Settlement and have advanced their rates to an exhorbitant figure were voiced at a meeting of the Shanghai District Peace Maintenance Society, according to the Chinese press.

As the upshot of the meeting, committees were instructed to write warnings to lodging house keepers not to increase their charges. It was also resolved that letters would be written to the various benevolent societies of Shanghai urging them to make provisions to care for refugees.

A statement that several factories in Shanghai are closing down, causing considerable distress among workers, was responsible for a resolution directing that letters be written to the owners of factories pleading with them not to cease work at this time.

Another local benevolent society, the Nanziang Peoples' Association, has rented a house to provide quarters for women and children who are coming from Nanziang to Shanghai because of the war. The house is situated in Chu Ka Loong, off Peking Road.

Fear New Shortage Of Wheat Supplies

(Reuter's American Service)

Ottawa, August 14.—Wheat crop records of 1923 must be repeated this year if the world is to avoid an "extraordinary scarcity in face of an exceptional demand," the Canadian Department of Agriculture announced today. A world's decrease from the previous year of 373,000,000 bushels of wheat and 122,000,000 bushels of rye is disclosed, with North America sharing 164,000,000 bushels of the shortage.

Warns Canada Of Vital Need For Naval Defense

(Reuter's American Service)

Halifax, N. S. August 13.—Canadians were told by Captain Henry J. Parker that the time would come when there would be no Dominion hymn to sing if the Dominion did not take measures for its naval defence.

Captain Parker, who is the senior officer on H.M.S. Repulse, of the British Special Service Squadron encircling the globe, addressed the Navy Day luncheon of the Rotary Club today.

"Your Minister of Defence has said that the Navy is the best form of insurance," he said, "I wonder how many times he has said that before, and I wonder what he is going to do about it; that is not my business, it is yours."

His warning followed the singing of patriotic songs at the opening of the luncheon and after Major-General Thacker, General officer commanding Halifax fortress, had sounded a similar cry.

"Candians sing 'O Canada, We Stand on Guard for Thee' with great gusto," said General Thacker. "But we stand on guard at the lowest cost per capita of any country except Bolivia."

Chinese Swindled, Gets Money Back

(Reuter's American Service)

New York, August 12.—On a complaint to steamship detectives that he had been cheated out of $2,000, Pu Pi-chien, a Chinese merchant from London, today caused three ocean-going poker players, with whom he sat on a friendly little game on the liner Majestic, to return the check he wrote for his losses.

A threat of arrest was sufficient to make the alleged sharpers return the check. They lost no time in disappearing after the liner docked.

B.W.A. Head Appeals For Supplies For Red Cross

Mrs. E. M. Gull, chairman of the British Women's Association issued the following appeal yesterday for assistance in connection with relief work in the present war emergency.

"I am asked by the Hospital Aid Department of the British Women's Association to make appeal through the courtesy of your columns for more workers and funds wherewith to carry on auxiliary hospital work in the present acute conditions.

"The work turned out by this Department goes, as a rule, to British Mission hospitals in the interior, but for the time being it has been arranged to forward it to the Chinese Red Cross Hospital in Avenue Haig. It is here, I am informed, that all the most seriously wounded soldiers are sent in the first instance—for operations when possible—after which, unless they succumb in the meantime, they are drafted to other hospitals.

"Doctors New and Tong, assisted by four well-known American doctors, Dr. Martha N. Hosking and others, are in charge here, and I was told that hospital dressings of any description would be exceedingly acceptable: bed jackets (the ordinary short white coat, fastening down the middle, as worn by coolies); many-tail bandages (both large and small sizes); roller bandages; absorbent pads, and swabs are—in the order in which I have given them—most needed.

"The actual hospital, including the new wards only completed a few weeks ago, is full up; and in addition a large mat-shed has been erected in the grounds. The unfortunate men, who have been drafted into the last-named, are lying on the ground, the supply of beds being inadequate. Arrangements are, however, I understand, being made to cope with this aspect of the situation. The need for coats, as I have indicated above, is really acute.

"It does not require much imagination to realise the condition of these wounded soldiers, when they are picked up by the stretcher-bearers from the ground, in weather conditions such as we have at present. From a Chinese source I learn that the military authorities are not particularly concerned with the comfort of their men once they have fallen. Indeed, it is said that their responsibility abruptly terminates when a soldier is wounded. The man may, or may not, be dragged out of the firing line; but then he is left to chance or to the Red Cross; no rations are provided for him, his pay ceases, no communication is made to his relatives, and if he dies, no coffin is provided. The Chinese Red Cross is doing its utmost, but on this unprecedentedly large scale of warfare in China, there are inevitably terrible delays in rescuing and treating the wounded.

"With lively recollections of the splendid companies of Chinese coolies we sent to France and elsewhere from Weihaiwei in 1917-1918, and the admirable work they did there, and their generally good behavior in war conditions, when they came to our aid, I make this appeal on behalf of the Hospital Aid Department, both for workers, materials of any description (bolts of sheeting are much desired) and funds, so that we may do what we can to mitigate the sufferings of the wounded,—and do it promptly."

Cotton Experts To Meet Annually To Approve Standards

(Reuter's American Service)

Washington, August 12.—A meeting of cotton experts to approve copies of the universal cotton standards will be held in Washington each year, beginning on the first Monday in March, in accordance with a supplemental international agreement between foreign cotton associations and the Department of Agriculture.

After a conference with representatives of the American cotton trade, the Department of Agriculture today made public the text of the supplemental agreement accepted by all of the foreign signers of the original agreement, made a year ago, excepting the Liverpool Cotton Association.

The American cotton trade representatives, in a statement, expressed the belief that members of the Liverpool Association, when they thoroughly understood the whole situation, would be disposed to accept the supplementary agreement and recall their notice of withdrawal from the original agreement accepting the official cotton standards of the United States as universal standards for trading in American upland cotton.

The supplementary agreement notes that the physical appearance of original samples may change in storage in spite of the greatest care. Such a change, which made it necessary to replace one box of samples, was the cause of the misunderstanding between Liverpool and the Department of Agriculture. To prevent such misunderstandings the yearly meetings of representatives will examine and approve sets of copies of the original standards."

Quartz Prospectors Again Are Roaming Hills In Montana

(Reuter's American Service)

Helena, Mont., August 15.—Quartz prospectors are roaming the Montana hills, gulches and abandoned mining camps this summer in such numbers as to aroused speculation among the early settlers as to whether the cry of "gold" again may lure hundreds into the areas where few men have ventured since the early sixties.

Free milling ore veins have long since been exploited, and in most cases abandoned by the individual prospector, to be taken over by the larger companies or operated on a small scale by miners. Golden laden sands in the creek beds where old placer camps were located have been panned and repanned, yielding millions in the early sixties, until bed rock strata turned the fortune seekers to other fields. Forced to discontinue the placer mining on a larger scale, the pioneer prospectors are now enlisting younger blood in the search for quartz, hoping to discover veins of sufficient size to warrant construction of stamp mills and reduction works.

Reports from the early-day camps indicate renewed activity at Virginia City and Alder Gulch, one of the richest of early-day sites, while from Confederate Gulch, 30 miles east of here, come stories of occasional nuggets in sluice boxes.
